Charles Sydney Frost joined the Canadian Army in 1942 after graduation from Royal Military College. After training in North Africa, he joined the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry on 11 April 1943. He landed in Sicily as part of OP Husky on 13 July 1943. On 16 July, Lt Frost and his platoon were tasked to move to the town of Ispica, where he was the Military Mayor from 16 July to 3 August. He was wounded twice in Italy. In 1945, he was appointed Acting Second in Command, remained with the Regiment until struck off strength on 25 September 1945.

After the war, Sydney Frost joined the Royal Regiment of Canada (Militia) in 1947 and was appointed Commanding Officer from 1959 until 1962. He was appointed Honorary Lieutenant Colonel from 1967 to 1974 and Honorary Colonel from 1974 until his death.

He developed a lifelong link to the citizens of Ispica and returned numerous times after the war. He was responsible for creating and dedicating the 1st Canadian Division Memorial near the Landing Beaches.

Sydney married Margaret Cabeldu in 1948, and they had three children, Norman, Janet, and Catherine. Colonel Frost authored three books, Once a Patricia, A Life Worthwhile, and Always a Patricia. He died on August 6, 2009.

A word from BGen Ray Romses, OMM, CD

The Sydney Frost Memorial Tour to Sicily and Italy will be one of the feature activities of the 110th PPCLI Anniversary. It is being conducted for the regimental family to honour the 80th Anniversary of the Regiment's World War II record in the Mediterranean Theatre.

The PPCLI record in 1944/45 was a fine one, as will be this re-visitation. The tour in May 2024 will start with the Sicily landings at Pachino (if you choose this starting option). You will stand on the beaches where Patricias landed, then head inland for a look at the major battles and a memorial highlighting 1st Canadian Infantry Division which was facilitated by Sydney Frost.

The Sicily and Italy groups will then link up at Cassino. The tour is capped at 80 all up, including some cadets and their guides. This number will fit comfortably into two coaches and fine hotels. Great food and a touch of wine may help lure the tour members to early slumbers.

There is a deliberate balance in the tour itinerary with three thrusts – excellent battle touring, remembrance, and dedication of three Memorial plaques at Leonforte, Hitler Line and Gothic Line while enjoying Italian hospitality and culture. For the battles we have great Canadian historians and several Italians to guide us on our walks. For remembrance there will be war cemeteries and five luncheons with local citizens from battle-affiliated areas to remember the war and break bread, and to unveil the new plaques. For the culture, Special Travel International (STI) will select fine hotels with good dining rooms, and there will be time for on-your-own lunches, evening visits to the local area, and so on. And of course, your travel companions will deliver endless mirth as you roll along and search for the perfect 'trattoria'.

Our 100th Anniversary partner STI and tour leaders have recce'd the routes, looked at every possible good option and built a solid tour package that should satisfy everyone. Book early and do not be disappointed. I and Carol my wife intend to be there with you, as the Patricia's again gain the Moro.

PRINCESS PATRICIA'S CANADIAN LIGHT INFANTRY and the Italian Campaign

On September 10, 1939, Canada declared war on Germany and on September 28, agreed to dispatch 1st Canadian Inf Division (Cdn Inf Div) at an early date. Mobilization started and on November 1, the units of 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade (2 CIB) were announced; they were the PPCLI, Loyal Edmonton Regiment and the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada. On December 21, 1st Cdn Inf Div sailed from Halifax, NS and arrived at Greenock, Scotland on December 30. This was the start of a long training period in England. In May 1943, the Patricias and many others within 1st Cdn Inf Div commenced amphibious training. On June 28 they sailed for Sicily as part of OP Husky.

On July 10, 1943, 1st Cdn Inf Div landed with the Patricias and Seaforth's on the left at Sugar Beach, while the RCRs and Hasting and Prince Edward Regt landed on the right at Roger Beach. The beaches were quickly seized and all units commenced advancing inland. The Patricias suffered four WIA on July 10 and CQMS John Stevens was the first Patricia KIA on July 12. He is buried at Agira Cemetery along with 29 other Patricias. Lt Sydney Frost was tasked to serve as the Mayor of Ispica from July 16 to August 3. Sydney developed a lifelong connection with Ispica which we will remember and honour. The Patricias advanced on foot across Sicily and fought their first major action at Leonforte on July 22 when they relieved the Loyal Eddies who had been surrounded by the Germans. 13 Patricias were KIA and 9 WIA. The Sicily campaign for Canadians ended on August 11. 1st Div had suffered 562 KIA, 1,664 WIA and 84 POWs, of which the Patricias had 30 KIA and 108 WIA.

The Regiment landed in Italy on September 4, 1943. The first two months were spent advancing inland (northward) with the Regiment's progress slowed by demolished bridges and German rear guards. In December 1943, the Patricias were heavily engaged at Villa Rogatti and the Gully and spent Christmas in the Ortona area. The next major offensive was the Hitler Line, west of Monte Cassino. May 23, 1944 was the worst day during World War II for 1st Cdn Div and the Patricias. The Div suffered 879 casualties, with 543 from 2 CIB. The Patricias started the attack with 324 men and by 4:00pm, 77 were left. We will dedicate a Regimental Memorial at the Hitler Line on the 80th Anniversary of the Battle.

aggressiveness. The 9 Italian Battle Honours on the Colours honour the sacrifices and victories by the men, Sr NCOs and Officers of the Regiment.

On March 13, 1946, the Patricias, along with the rest of the 1st Cdn Corps, moved to North-West Europe to join the 1st Canadian Army. Travelling through southern and central France, they arrived in Belgium. Following 11 days of light activity, the Regiment was on the move with 1st Cdn Div to liberate Holland. On April 11, the Div crossed the IJssel River, and the Patricias played an important role in the capture of Apeldoorn. Victory in Europe (VE) Day was May 8, 1945.

During WWII, 3,687 all ranks served with the Patricias. 326 paid the ultimate sacrifice, 991 were WIA, 92 were injured in a forward area and 54 were captured. The Regiment was awarded 16 Battle Honours in Italy and 2 in NW Europe and they spent 20 out of 23 months of combat in Italy. The Patricias fought as part of 2 CIB with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment (formerly 49th Battalion) and the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada from Vancouver, and we share many of the same Battle Honours.
